Important information regarding the Programme Specification

About this document

Last revised 13 January 2021

The Programme Specification gives a broad outline of the structure and content of the programme, the entry level qualifications, as well as the learning outcomes students will achieve as they progress. Some of the information referred to in a programme specification is included in more detail on the University of London website. Where this is the case, links to the relevant webpage are included.

Where links to external organisations are provided, the University of London is not responsible for their content and does not recommend nor necessarily agree with opinions expressed and services provided at those sites.

If you have a query about any of the programme information provided, whether here or on the website, registered students should use the Ask a question button in the Student Portal; otherwise the Contact Us button at the bottom left hand corner of every webpage should be used.

Key revisions made

Programme specifications are revised annually. The LSE, as part of its annual review of standards, confirms the programme structure and the educational aims and learning outcomes, and advises on any development in student support. Where there are changes which may impact on continuing students, these are listed below. For all new students, the programme and general information provided in this document is correct and accurate and will be applicable for the current year.

Significant changes made to the programme specification 2021-2022:

No significant changes

Terminology

The following language is specific to the EMFSS Certificate of Higher Education in Social Sciences:

Course: Individual units of the programme are called courses. Each course is a self-contained, formally structured learning experience with a coherent and explicit set of learning outcomes and assessment criteria.

Prerequisite: A course that must be passed before you are permitted to register for another particular course.

Co-requisite: A course that must be registered for and examined either before or at the same time as another course.

Alternative Assessments during the Coronavirus (COVID-19) Outbreak

In line with our current General Regulations, the University may offer you alternative assessments where necessary. This includes holding online timed assessments in place of written examinations, which are usually held at examination centres. Please note that this statement replaces any published information relating to assessments or written examinations in any of our materials including the website. Previously published materials relating to examinations should therefore be read in conjunction with this statement.

The University of London continues to work towards supporting the academic progression of all its students. The University also continues to be mindful of the health and wellbeing of its students during this pandemic, whilst protecting the academic standards of its awards.

Mode of study

Students studying the Certificate of Higher Education in Social Sciences are required to attend a full- or part-time course of instruction at a recognised teaching centre.

The University of London website provides an overview of teaching centres.

Programme structures

The Certificate of Higher Education in Social Sciences is comprised of four full courses, or the equivalent. Each course is a '100 course', which corresponds to Level 4 of the Framework for Higher Education Qualifications (FHEQ). Where half courses are indicated in a programme, two half courses are equivalent to one full course in terms of structure.

The current structure can be found on the programme's Structure page on the University of London website.

To be considered for the qualification of a Certificate of Higher Education in Social Sciences, a student must have attempted and passed every element of the assessment for four full courses or the equivalent, each at a mark of 40 or above.

Transferring to a degree

A student who successfully completes the Certificate of Higher Education in Social Sciences may request to transfer their registration to the Standard Route of an EMFSS degree. The courses passed can be applied as credit where the structure of the degree allows. This is subject to meeting the necessary conditions in the General and Programme Regulations.

If a student wishes to transfer to an EMFSS degree via the Graduate Entry Route, they must meet the entrance requirements for Graduate Entry as well as satisfying the necessary conditions in the General and Programme Regulations.

Transfer to a Graduate Diploma is not permitted. A student who has completed the Certificate of Higher Education in Social Sciences who wants to study one of these programmes must submit a new application to the University of London.

Full details of the Scheme of Award are included in the Programme Regulations.

Maximum and minimum periods of registration

The maximum and minimum period of registration, from a student's effective date of registration, are:

	Minimum	Maximum
CertHE Social Sciences	One year	Three years

Study materials are made available after registration and on payment of the applicable fee.

Credit value of courses

Further information about the credit systems used by universities in the UK and Europe is provided by the Quality Assurance Agency and the European Credit Transfer and Accumulation System.

Where credits are assigned to each course of a programme, credit indicates the amount of learning carried out in terms of the notional number of study hours needed, and the specified Frameworks for Higher Education Qualifications of UK Degree-awarding Bodies (FHEQ) credit level indicates the depth, complexity and intellectual demand of learning involved. The details below indicate the UK credits and the European Credit Transfer and Accumulation System (ECTS) values.

For the Economics, Management, Finance and the Social Sciences suite of programmes, credits are assigned to the courses as follows:

- 30 UK credits or 15 ECTS credits for a full course at level 4, or 15 UK credits or 7.5 ECTS credits for a half course at level 4
- 30 UK credits or 15 ECTS credits for a full course at level 5, or 15 UK credits or 7.5 ECTS credits for a half course at level 5
- 30 UK credits or 15 ECTS credits for a full course at level 6, or 15 UK credits or 7.5 ECTS credits for a half course at level 6

One UK credit equates to a notional ten hours of study.

Entrance requirements

The entrance requirements below are a minimum level. Recognised teaching centres may set higher entry requirements and other additional requirements that students will need to meet to gain access to the programme at their chosen teaching centre.

All other programmes within the EMFSS suite must be applied for directly through the University of London website.

The full list of EMFSS programmes can be found on our website. Programme-specific requirements can be found on the Requirements tab for each programme.

Applicants for the Certificate of Higher Education in Social Sciences must submit an application directly to their chosen recognised teaching centre.

Entrance Requirements for the Certificate of Higher Education in Social Sciences

Age:

Applicants must normally be 18 years or older before 31 December in the year of initial registration.

Qualifications:

- One GCE/A Level and 4 GCSE/O Levels (or equivalent as set out in the Qualifications for Entrance on the University of London website) including Mathematics

OR

- Six GCSE/O Levels (or equivalent) including Mathematics

English language requirements

Applicants must satisfy the English language requirements for the programme. These are set out in detail on the programme page under the Requirements tab for each programme.

Additional information on English language proficiency tests are given on the website.

Where an applicant does not meet the prescribed English language proficiency requirements but believes that they can demonstrate the requisite proficiency for admission the University may, at its discretion, consider the application.

Internet access

Students will require regular access to a computer with an internet connection to use the University of London's online resources and systems. A webcam may be required in the event that online timed assessments (if offered) are proctored, and in such a case, it is a student's responsibility to ensure that they have a webcam.

The computer should have at least the following minimum specification:

- a web browser with Cookies and JavaScript enabled (a latest version of Firefox or Chrome is recommended);
- a good internet connection;

And the following applications installed:

- a word processor that accepts Microsoft Word formats (.doc and .docx);
- a pdf reader.

Students with access requirements

The University of London welcomes applications from disabled students and/or those who have access requirements. The University will make every effort to provide reasonable adjustments to enable those with a disability, learning difficulty or access requirements to have the same opportunity as all other students to successfully complete their studies.

The University is committed to managing the application procedure and the programme itself to ensure that services are accessible for all students and that an inclusive environment is created. Students with a disability, or others who may need access arrangements to assist in taking examinations, should complete the relevant section of the application form, or contact the Inclusive Practice Manager. A separate room or other arrangements may be considered.

Requests are considered by a University panel, whose purpose is to ensure that students with disabilities and/or specific access requirements are neither advantaged nor disadvantaged by such arrangements when compared with other students. These considerations remain separate from the academic selection processes.

For further information, see Inclusive Practice Policy

Sources of funding and scholarships

Information about potential sources of funding and scholarships is updated annually and where available is included in the prospectus web pages.

For further information see the website

Educational aims and learning outcomes of the programmes

Each of the programmes within the fields of Economics, Management, Finance and Social Science aims to offer a challenging, flexible scheme of study invigorated by research, which advances a student's ability to develop academic and practical insights into the subjects studied. Students will be encouraged to develop a broad range of transferable and in some cases technical expertise.

Certificate of Higher Education in Social Sciences

The programmes aim to provide students who may not have the necessary background the opportunity to demonstrate their ability to study at degree level.

Students who successfully complete the programme should have developed analytical and communicative competence in order to allow them to undertake further study at undergraduate level.

Learning, teaching and assessment strategies

A student who wishes to register for the Certificate of Higher Education in Social Sciences must first enrol at a recognised teaching centre. The study materials provided are supplemented by tuition offered by the teaching centre. The University of London does not provide tuition.

For all registered students, subject guides are provided for each course studied. The subject guides include tools to assist a student in the development of the skills of information search, comprehension and analysis and the generation of original and thoughtful assignments. Subject guides offer advice on how to use the recommended textbooks which form the focus of the student's studies. A student is required to buy these textbooks themselves.

Advice and practical information such as study techniques, planning, preparation for assessment is available in the specially prepared guide Strategies for success.

A student may communicate with others on a free web-based Virtual Learning Environment. Students will have access to course materials, and be able to engage in dialogue and develop and negotiate conclusions with others – key components in the acquisition of knowledge, understanding and transferable skills.

Written examinations form the greater part of the assessment of the programmes. For each course students will be assessed mainly by written examination. Questions are structured to allow students to demonstrate that they have acquired appropriate knowledge and understanding. The way that students manage data, solve problems, evaluate ideas and the organisational skills they use to structure their written answers allows the standard of intellectual and transferable skills to be assessed.

Assessment criteria for the programme take into account the level at which these skills have been achieved.

Assessment methods

In line with our current General Regulations, the University may offer students alternative assessments where necessary. This includes holding online timed assessments in place of written examinations, which are usually held at examination centres.

Aside from a few exceptions, each full course is examined by one three-hour unseen written assessment and each half course by one two-hour unseen written assessment. The assessment of some courses also involves the submission of coursework or a project – in these cases, details are included as part of the course syllabus.

The written assessments take place on one occasion each year, normally commencing in May. These are held at established examination centres worldwide.

Full details of the dates of all examinations are available on the website.

Student support and guidance

- The Virtual Learning Environment \(VLE\): this gives access to materials for each course, including tutorial activities, study support resources and access to the programme of EMFSS webinars.
- Programme Handbook: this provides general information about the EMFSS programmes, including an overview of key policies and procedures.
- Student Guide: This provides information which is common to all students and gives information about matters of importance from the start of a student's relationship with the University of London through to their graduation.
- Student Portal: for accessing student induction, study skills support, careers and employability resources, student wellbeing advice.
- Subject guides for each course which introduce and develop the topics
- Recommended reading lists are provided online. Students may need to buy their own textbooks or use copies provided by their teaching centre.
- Online discussion areas which allow students to communicate with each other.
- Past examination papers and examiners' commentaries. These provide an indication of the format of examinations and course-level feedback on completed assessments.
- Programme Regulations: these are a set of rules which apply to your programme – students are responsible for ensuring they are familiar with the regulations for their programme.
- The Online Library provides a range of e-books, along with full-text and multidisciplinary databases where journal articles, book reviews and reports can be found. The Online Library also has a dedicated homepage for EMFSS students.
- University of London library: Registered students may use the resources located within the Senate House library (for a small additional fee).
- A University of London email account and web area for personal information management.

At an extra cost, students studying for the Certificate of Higher Education in Social Sciences must enrol at a recognised teaching centre. The above learning materials are supplemented by tuition offered by the teaching centre. Students must make their own arrangements to work with teaching centres which provide full-time classes, regular part-time classes or occasional revision sessions.

Quality evaluation and enhancement

The University of London delivers the majority of its flexible and distance learning programmes through a collaboration between the University of London Worldwide and member institutions of the University of London. However some of the flexible and distance learning programmes draw solely on academic input from the University of London, and are delivered without academic lead by a member institutions. The policies, partnerships (where applicable) and quality assurance mechanisms applicable for the programmes are defined in the following key documents: The Quality Framework, the Quality Assurance Schedules.

Guidelines for Examinations, General Regulations and, for each programme, programme specific regulations.

Awards standards

All University of London qualifications have to align with the Frameworks for Higher Education Qualifications of UK Degree-Awarding Bodies to assure appropriate standards for each qualification. In addition, every programme that is developed by a member institution of the University of London (or a consortium with representation by more than one member institution) will be developed to the same standard as would be applied within the institution concerned. Proportionate and robust approval procedures, including external scrutiny and student engagement are in place for all programmes. Learning materials are written and all assessments are set and marked by academic staff who are required to apply the University's academic standards.

Review and evaluation mechanisms

Some of the key mechanisms in place to assure the standards of all University of London qualifications and the quality of the student experience, include:

- Annual programme reports: produced for all programmes in order to review and enhance the provision and to plan ahead;
- Independent external examiners: submit reports every year to confirm that a programme has been assessed properly and meets the appropriate academic standards;
- Annual student information statistics: prepared for all systematic reporting within the University of London;
- Periodic programme reviews: carried out every 4-6 years to review how a programme has developed over time and to make sure that it remains current and up-to-date.

Improvements are made as necessary to ensure that systems remain effective and rigorous.

Student feedback and engagement

The principal channel for collecting feedback from students is the Student Experience Survey. Carried out every two years, this collects feedback from the student body on a range of topics relating to the student lifecycle. The results are analysed externally and then considered in a number of different ways, including by the programme team, principal committees and the senior leadership team. Details of any resulting actions taken are published on the Virtual Learning Environment and the Student Portal.

Additionally, on completion of their programme of study students will be invited to take a survey that seeks to measure what they have gained from their studies.

There are also opportunities for students to get involved in governance. An undergraduate and postgraduate student member is appointed by the University to the majority of committees through an annual appointment round. Some programmes also recruit student members at the programme level. Students are frequently invited to take part in quality review processes such as Periodic Programme Reviews, Programme approval, Thematic Reviews, MOOC review panels and ad hoc focus groups. Opportunities such as these are advertised through social media and on the website. More information can be found on the website.

Students can also apply to join the Student Voice Group, which meets four times a year to consider initiatives for enhancing student experience. Notes from these meetings are published on the Student Portal.

After graduation

Further study

Successful completion of an EMFSS programme may serve as preparation for students who wish to go on to take further study in the subject area – whether to be undertaken at LSE or elsewhere.

The Certificate of Higher Education in Social Sciences is specially developed to allow students who do not have the necessary academic background to develop and demonstrate the analytical and communicative competence needed to undertake further study at degree level.

Successful completion of a degree may allow a student to progress to postgraduate study in the degree field or a related area or to undertake further professional qualifications.

Graduate employment routes

Graduates of the programmes will have a sound basis for careers in a wide range of areas from major corporations to small businesses, government organisations, the voluntary sector, international organisations and the media.

The Alumni Network

Upon graduation, students automatically become part of the University of London alumni community, a diverse global network of more than one million graduates in over 180 countries, providing lifelong links to the University and to each other.

Alumni are encouraged to keep in touch after they graduate and to become active members of the alumni community; in return they receive a number of benefits and services, including an extensive programme of events and engagement opportunities.

More information is available on the alumni webpage.
